THE MARS COUNTRY

Once upon a time there was a man, called Repa. As a wealthy farmer he lived quite well when a disease caught him. He left his farm and flied up to the Jupiter 12, but was not cured there. As he desperately walked around he met a robot who gave him some pills and he was miracuosly well again. Then he decided to research some other planets, so he stopped on the planet Car where he discovered a great new star. Wandering further and further to the space he reached the planet Jupiter 6, then got some rest on the Nessi star from where there was a nice view over the Mars 30, Mars 6 and Merkur 6. He enjoyed his trip very much but longed to see his Earth again. Returning home his health never failed him again.

THE GALAXY

All of us wish to become an astronaut and we deeply hope that one day our desire will come true. Once upon a time there was a village where all inhabitants wanted to become astronauts. It was only one among them who took away their dreams. As he was very rich he wanted to buy a whole village and built there his own private space station. But the villagers joined together and gathered money to prevent him from buying a village, they drew him away. After that the rich man realized his mistake and asked them for a permission to build up a community space station for which they gave him their consent. Since then everyone from that village could become an astronaut and be launched into the space where every child could choose his own constellation. That's why their sky is full of various constellations such as the Tiger's, the Dragon's the Scorpion's.
